

Priorities set by NGOs accredited by UNCCD:

- Recognition by policy makers, financial institutions and others that local initiatives contribute to the recovery of degraded land.
- The security to be able to use land in the long term, for women and young people in particular, must be guaranteed through a clear COP14 decision.
- The participation of civil society organisations, and in particular of women's organisations, to decision making with regard to land use planning, desertification, land degradation and the implementation of the UNCCD.
- Financing must be accessible and appropriate for communities, and in particular women, to support sustainable land use and land restoration, to participate in decision making with regard to land use planning and to help monitor the execution of the convention.
- We contribute to the transition of our societies for more achieve sustainability and justice, in particular gender equality.